

FIVE BULLETS FAIL TO HALT STORE BANDIT

Man Found Inside W.
Main-st Chain Store
Makes Getaway

NO LOOT REPORTED

Robber Crawls Through
Cellar Window

W. Main-st resembled a border town of about 50 years ago Tuesday evening when an attempted robbery was frustrated at the Atlantic & Pacific Co. store. Five bullets fired from the revolver of Officer Fred Fitzpatrick in the alley beside the store failed to impress the would-be robber and as far as local authorities know the man is still running.

It was about 10:30 p. m., Wednesday when Jack Jonas, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jonas, W. Main-st., walked through the alley between the store and the Circleville Motors garage. He noticed that a grating which covers a cellar window had been removed. Thinking nothing of the incident he replaced the grating but walked onto Main-st. and told his father of the grating. Mr. Jonas walked to the side of the building and found that the grating had been removed again. He then called Officer Fitzpatrick.

CRAWLED FROM HOLE

Fitzpatrick, Jonas and William Anderson, merchant policeman, were standing at the side of the building around the window when they heard a crash in front and thought the front glass of the store had been broken out. They ran to the front where they found the glass meat sign broken on the sidewalk. When Fitzpatrick again walked to the side of the building he saw a man who had been inside the store crawling from the cellar window. The man started to run and Fitzpatrick ordered him to stop and the man replied "Stop and shoot."

SHOOTED THREE TIMES

The officer shot three times but none of the bullets took effect. He again shot twice but didn't stop the fleeing man. Whether Fitzpatrick meant to hit the fugitive or frighten him is not known. A search made of the city after the attempted robbery and shooting failed to result in the arrest of any suspects.

Officers are of the opinion that a lookout was standing in front of the store and when the authorities appeared, struck the meat sign so hard that it broke, warning the man on the inside. The lookout then fled.

Two baskets of groceries, cigarettes and other staples were found in the cellar of the building and one basket filled with sugar had been moved from the front of the store. As near as William Theobald, store manager, can check the only loot obtained was $1.19 in pennies.

Only a slight description has been obtained by police, that is, that the man was wearing a mackinac and a light cap.

U. S. SALARY CUT ASSAILED

Opposition.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The fight for reduction of salaries of government employees as a part of the bipartisan economy move in Congress encountered strong opposition today.

While backers of the salary slash plan were pressing for a showdown in House action on the $175,000,000 agricultural supply bill, counter demands for delay until the tax revision bill has been passed were raised.

Rep. Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, Democratic house leader, predicted failure of the plan to dispose of the whole question on the appropriation bill 78903 vbgkqjcmfwv priatin bill.

'LAW IS UNNEEDED'
Bordering States Now
Get Business, Claim

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—Ohio marriages have decreased 50 per cent or more in the last few months, but good old Romance, never fear, has not flown out the window.

There are just as many sly glances between opposite sexes as ever—just as much hand-holding, just as many love letters, fully as many broken hearts, and three times as much petting. But the new Ohio five-day marriage license law has driven matrimony into adjoining states.

RESULT PREDICTED

Ohio probate judges, fretting because their offices aren't nearly as filled with an air of Dan Cupid as they were a year ago, stated those opinions emphatically at their annual convention here today, pointing out that they had predicted such a result.

Most judges interviewed placed little blame for the decrease in marriages in Ohio on economic conditions.

Ohio border counties, unwilling to allow the license business to go to West Virginia, Kentucky, New York or Pennsylvania, are practically ignoring the five-day provision.

CARPER TRIAL INTEREST HIGH

State Asks Death For Sisco
Carper; Defense Claims
Self Defense.

With interest at a high pitch, testimony was resumed Wednesday in Lancaster's first murder trial in 17 years.

State attorneys are seeking to convict 18-year-old Sisco Carper for the first-degree murder of his father, Harvey Carper, last August. The elder Carper's partially decomposed body was found last August 11 in a wood near here.

Defense attorneys of whom Tom Renick, of this city, is one contend that the youth killed his father in self-defense.

Scores of persons jammed the courtroom as the trial went into its second court session. Many of the spectators brought their lunches and some even brought their own folding chairs, anticipating a lack of seats in the crowded courtroom.

Herald Cooking School To Fill Hall Next Week

If the populace of Circleville and vicinity follows its nose next week, it will end up at the Memorial Hall. For the good odors of baking, roasting, broiling and stewing will emanate from that auditorium on four days, at least. There is already a strong indication that the hall will be crowded at every session for the occasion is The Herald Cooking School, with Mrs. George O. Thurn in charge. The good cookery odors will be only a small part of the thrilling and enlightening displays put on.

The Herald stands for progress in the homes of Circleville as well as in its business, philanthropy, and civic activities and it believes that there is no more important part of the home than the kitchen. The improvement of the kitchen, the proper cooking and serving of good food and the planning of menus, all influence the well being of the household. The Herald Cooking School will include these vital features of home management at every session.

HUEY LONG'S POLICY WINS

Opponents of Militant Louisiana Governor Badly Defeated At The Polls.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 20.—Huey P. Long, Louisiana's militant governor and senator-elect, today apparently emerged victorious from his battle of ballots with political adversaries.

Incomplete returns from yesterday's Democratic primary election indicated a heavy plurality for Long's candidate for the party gubernatorial nomination, Oscar K. Allen. As the ballot counting progressed, Allen's lead over his two opponents, Dudley LeBlanc and George Seth Gunion, continued to grow.

SAME AS ELECTION

Democratic nomination for the office of governor is tantamount to election in Louisiana.

In New Orleans, regarded as the state's political barometer, virtually complete unofficial returns accorded Allen and the entire Long slate a clear majority of 49.

FIVE BANDITS KIDNAP, ROB

Escape With Money After Holding Family of Cashier of Institution.

MUNDELEIN, Ill., Jan. 20.—Five bandits today escaped with $3,500 from the Mundelein state bank kidnaping cashier Milan C. Mott, his wife and four children and holding them captive for six hours.

Paul Mott, 22, the cashier's son, was taken hostage by the gang to prevent immediate spreading of an alarm. He has not been returned.

"If you report to police before two hours, he will be killed," the bandits told the elder Mott.

Traveling in a large new sedan bearing 1932 Illinois license plates, the heavily armed desperadoes arrived at 2 a. m. at the Mott home. One of the gang gained entrance through a window and then opened the front door to admit his confederates. The bandits roused the sleeping family and hoarded them into the living room.

Giving their victims time merely to don outer garments, the gunmen forced them into the sedan and drove to the bank, one mile distant.

Senators to Halt Prison Questioning to Study Soldier's, Sailor's Home

MANY CHARGES
'Petticoat Rule' at Home is in Charge

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—Long-accumulated charges by war veterans of "general mismanagement" and "petticoat rule" of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Sandusky by Commandant Perry L. Null and Mrs. Null, the matron, were ordered investigated today by the state senate welfare investigating committee.

Temporarily halting its inquiry into charges of cruelty to prisoners and allegations of pardon-buying at Ohio Penitentiary, the committee will go to Sandusky tomorrow to sift the accusations against Mr. and Mrs. Null, Senator Joseph N. Ackerman (R) of Cleveland, secretary, announced.

GRANTED MORE MONEY

Decision to conduct an investigation of the Sandusky institution was reached last night by the committee after it was notified that it had been granted an additional $4,000 by the board of control for expenses.

In addition to conducting an investigation of the Sandusky institution the committee also plans to use part of the $4,000 appropriation to employ detectives to ferret out facts pertaining to the release of certain penitentiary prisoners.

Money made available by the board of control for the welfare institution probe was transferred from the unexpended balance of funds which had been set aside for use of the highway department investigating committee. The board at the same time made available $32,000 for welfare director John McSweney to employ 10 additional parole officers for the various penal institutions.

Among the charges to be investigated at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Sandusky is made by inmates that too much power over them is held by Mrs. Null, it was learned.

Various state officials, including Conservation Commissioner William H. Reinhart, whose home is located at Sandusky, have been repeatedly asked to assist the veterans in their attempts to oust Null and his wife, it was said.

LETTERS RECEIVED

It is known that letters have been addressed to Governor White, requesting the removal of Null. They were regarded as "crank letters," however, and no action was ever taken.

Sen. Ackerman declared he has in his possession "dozens of charges" against the commandant, all in writing.

"In fact," he stated, "I have too much evidence. It will take too long to investigate all of it."

Although Ackerman was understood to have made detailed statements to members of the welfare investigation committee about the charges against Null, he told newspapermen he did not want to make public too many of the charges.

"They may not be true," he declared.

Meanwhile, the investigation of charges of cruelty at the Ohio penitentiary here was continued today with more witnesses called to testify regarding conditions at the prison.

WELL KNOWN COURT ATHLETES COMPRISE HEBRON GASSER "5"

Probably the finest equipped and, in fact, the finest basketball team that will take the court against the Circleville Athletic club this season will appear here Thursday evening, Jimmy Balthus' Hebron Gassers, strong in every sense of the word, will provide opposition for the Club tossers.

Several of the stars making up the Hebron team have been in the limelight of Ohio basketball for several years and their presence should draw a large crowd of court fans through the turn-stiles of C. A. C. gym.

MECHLING ALONG

Heading the list of satellites is Gene Mechling, former Capital University star, who was high point man in the Ohio conference for two years. Mechling is one of the fastest and hardest basketball players in the state and is a mighty tough man to hold under 12 or 15 points.

Next in line is the flashy George

Van Heyde, former O. S. U. center, who did yeoman work in the Big Ten several years ago. Van Heyde is as well known to local court fans as Mechling.

SWACKHAMMER, ACE

Nolan Swackhammer, former Laureville high school luminary, who matriculated at Ohio University, is the only small man on the squad playing a forward position with Mechling. Swackhammer is made to order for the style of play Jimmy Balthus' aggregation puts out. Being small in stature and mighty fast this lad is put in the clear by his team after time by its system of blocking.

At one of the guards will be Walter Harrop, man-mountain who burned up the Ohio conference several years ago at Muskingum college. Harrop has played here with New Lexington several times and is a favorite with local fans by his clean court action.

At the other guard is an athlete named White who did his court work at Carnegie Tech.

Coach-Manager Joe Lynch is providing Circleville fans with choice morsels of Ohio basketball and deserves the patronage of Circleville and Pickaway-co fans.

O. S. U. WILDCAT GAME WATCHED BY CON. TEAMS

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—With visions of first place rambling through their minds, Ohio State university dribblers dashed about the hard woods today fully determined to clip the wings of the leisurely sailing Northwestern Wildcats in the big Ten conference title at Evanston Saturday night.

From present indications, the match appears to be a toss up. Northwestern, last year's champions, is regarded as one of the outstanding scoring teams of the loop while the Buckeyes are second only to Michigan in defensive play. Moreover, they are not to be disregarded from a scoring standpoint. When Colburn, Hoffer and their three team-mates hit their stride, the ball takes frequent trips through the mesh.

The Wildcats have rung up five straight victories with no defeat while Ohio has been successful in its three conference starts. The state's only defeat in seven games played has been a 29 to 28 decision to Vanderbilt. Since then, ever, Coach Harold G. Olsen, has developed new material which will get its paramount test in the Wildcat encounter.

Any member of the family of Harry Riggins, 233 N. Scioto-st., is invited to be a guest of The Herald to the Grand Theatre. Call at this office for ticket.

AT LUTHERAN PARISH HOUSE TONIGHT

The champion Ohio College Glee club, from Capital University, Columbus, will be brought to the Lutheran Parish House, on Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Luther League.

The Capital University Glee club is said to be one of the finest college singing organizations of its kind in the country. The club holds the Ohio championship trophy awarded the winner of the Ohio inter-collegiate glee club contest. The present glee club is the outgrowth of a quarter century of experience with college glee clubs on the part of able directors. The Capital University Conservatory of Music is responsible for the annual crop of trained vocalists from which the director may select the personnel of his organization. With a group of trained singers at his command, the director of the college glee club is able to attempt and execute musical offerings of the more difficult type with as much success as those of a lighter nature. As a result the Capital Glee club is constantly able to offer the public a program with so much variety that everyone will be pleased.

The Capital singers are traveling through the middle West this season. The itinerary will take the Glee club as far as Chicago before the turn back east. The itinerary will cover 15 days. Concerts will be given on each night and sometimes in the afternoon. In addition to the regular glee club, the traveling personnel includes a feature orchestra, which will provide a part of the program to be given here.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 20.—The Bureau of the Census announced a summary of the financial statistics of the state of Ohio for the fiscal year ending Dec. 31, 1931. The per capita figures for 1930 are based on an estimated population of 6,668,000. These statistics were compiled by Charles F. Wendorf.

The payments for operation and maintenance of the general departments of Ohio amounted to $55,826, 689 or $8.37 per capita. This was $26,529,162 more than the total payments of the year, exclusive of the payments for permanent improvements, but $4,833,971 less than the total payments including those for permanent improvements. Of the total revenue receipts $966,805 represents receipts from a State department or enterprise on account of

LICENSES GIVEN

Business and nonbusiness licenses constituted 55.1 per cent of the total revenue for 1930, 56.8 per cent for 1929, and 48.8 per cent for 1918.

Receipts from business licenses consist chiefly of taxes exacted from insurance and other incorporated companies, the cigarette tax, and the sales tax on motor vehicles and amounts paid for hunting and fishing privileges. WESLEYAN CAGERS DEFEAT BOBCATS

DELAWARE, O., Jan. 20.—A bucket-making spree in the last six minutes of play here last night gave Ohio Wesleyan cagers a 33 to 24 Ohio Conference victory over Ohio University today.

Wesleyan trailed until the last minute of the first half when a free throw by Hendrix gave the locals a 14-13 lead. A moment after the second period got underway, however, Ohio U. came back to grab the lead and hold it until the late rally by the Wesleyan boys.

The Bobcats' chances for a win disappeared when Saunders and Brown, guard and center respectively, were sent to the showers on personal fouls. Sharp, Ohio U. forward, led the scorers with 15 points, while Hendrix captured follow-up position with 14 markers.

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salt, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly clean and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-at-the-feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If the bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. You also often break out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, acting when it comes to making the bile flow free. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. In a New Orleans suburb Elmer Dunnington, a former convict, was killed and two other men were wounded in a gun battle which was said to have resulted from a political argument.

Fights and disorders in other parts of the city were also reported. It was charged by Attorney General Percy Saint that a group of armed Long adherents had gathered in Barataria at the Jefferson Parish and had coerced voters to support the administration ticket.

Allen's apparent victory was looked upon as vindication of Gov. Long's policies, particularly his advocacy of pushing the state highway and bridge construction program to completion. LeBlanc and Guion vigorously opposed Long's platform.

Ghouls

IN its investigation of receiver-ships in mortgage foreclosures the City Club of New York claims to have made some startling discoveries and to have uncovered abuses that demand immediate attention from the state's legislative commission studying the administration of justice.

Among the conclusions arrived at is that in most instances the receiver takes out of the property all he can get and leaves as little as possible for the creditors. The principal complaint is that receiver's costs are exorbitant even to the point where they come within the definition of plunder.

Suspicion was aroused by the fact that there are persons, some of them prominent professional men, who seem to make acting as receiver their vocation and their profession an avocation. The investigators found one practicing dentist who had acted as receiver nine times within the period covered by the survey.

These disclosures are unusually pertinent at this time when liquidations are painfully numerous and when every dollar counts. Victims of business failures and foreclosures should be milked out of additional dollars by grasping receivers and their hired help.

The courts promise them protection and then betray them into the hands of scoundrels.

Corrective measures may be within the power of the state legislatures, but while they are waiting for them the courts might show a little more care in guarding the assets of others.

Can Steam Comeback?

LONG before the invention of the internal combustion engine steam revolutionized the world by giving birth to the industrial system. Steam may again revolutionize things, especially transportation, through the development of turbines lighter and more efficient than the gasoline motor. If experiments about to be made in Cleveland prove successful, steam will soon be propelling airplanes.

Steam power gave us the gasoline engine, but the portable steam engine could not be built sufficiently light in weight with the old designs to compete successfully with the internal combustion motor.

Aviation requires a steam engine that is light in weight, of great power, highly efficient and with condensers of sufficient efficiency to make virtually unnecessary the replenishing of the water supply. The Cleveland engineers believe they are now on the right track.

Such an engine would not only revolutionize aviation but would revolutionize the automobile industry and wreck the gasoline business unless contemporary improvements were made in the gasoline motor. Automotive engineers have long been working on a lighter and more efficient internal combustion engine.

If the next battle of the century is between gasoline and steam the railroads and every industry using steam or gasoline power will be interested in the outcome. An industrial nation of the magnitude of the United States can profit from the minutest reduction in power costs.

Women and Disarmament

APPOINTMENT by the Canadian government of Miss M. W. Lloyd, president of that country's National Council of Women, as a member of the dominion's delegation to the Geneva conference follows a precedent set by President Hoover when he made Dr. Mary Woolton a member of the American delegation. The British did likewise by designating Mrs. Margery Corbett Ashby an alternate in the delegation from England.

Woman has much at stake at Geneva and had she not been granted representation she would have been justified in demanding it. Her presence there should have a beneficial effect, advancing appreciably the cause of disarmament and world peace.

The action of three nations in including women in their delegations is indicative that woman's influence will be mobilized as never before at an international gathering to promote the work of the conference. One senses a connection between these appointments and the establishment of an armistice between the international disarmament committee and 13 organizations of women, most of them international for the purpose of backing the efforts of the committee at Geneva.

Success at Geneva will depend largely on the effectiveness with which the people in every country for relief from the burdens and perils of competitive armament can be brought to bear upon the conference. Help from the women of the world is essential to its effectiveness.

A critic says flapperism is a state of mind. If any.

SYNOPSIS
While the newboys shouted, "All about the big gang killing," Fanchon Meredith and a man named Tony planned their getaway. Tony gives Fanchon $4,000 and reserves passage for her under the name of "Miss Smith" on an airplane chartered by the wealthy Mr. Eames enroute to New York. A fellow passenger, whom she had previously met on the boat coming from Hawaii, recognizes Fanchon. She is Evelyn Howard. Evelyn is going to live with the wealthy Mrs. Allison Carstairs, an aunt whom she had never seen. Fanchon envies Evelyn flying to happiness, while she is trying to escape because she was Tony's girl. Tony, who lied his way through life and whom she had innocently accepted on face value, Fanchon confides in Evelyn about her love for Tony. The police are searching for Fanchon, "The Mystery Woman." Fanchon asks Evelyn to enlist her aunt's aid in securing a position for her, but Evelyn becomes aloof. The plane crashes.

CHAPTER V
Afterwards, even at a time when she was harassed and hounded by questions and urgencies, she was forced to confess she remembered very little of the period between the return to consciousness and her rescue. She remembered coming up out of bitter seas, smothering, choking. She opened her eyes aware of terror, aware of stinging pain. She was pressed in, she was hemmed down. A weight lay across her lower body. Hurtingly, she dragged herself free. The weight was—Evelyn Howard, lying prone, yelping bloody curses. Fanchon's thighs. Fanchon remembered dimly pulling, hauling, dragging herself, and the merriment of the other girl—free.

There were trees. Rough ground. No signs of a house. The storm was abating but the heavy rain still fell. The plane, a twisted mass of flung wreckage. Bodies. Carnage. Horror.

Fanchon got to her feet. She looked down at herself. In one hand she clutched tightly, ironic incident, the pocket book with which Evelyn had entrusted her. Fanchon took a step forward. She was, save for a deep cut on her arm from the shattered window glass, save for wrenchings and bruises and aches, perfectly and miraculously unharmed.

Evelyn?

The girl's body remained where Fanchon, half unaware of what she did, had dragged it—lying at some distance from the plane. Fanchon tried to run to her, stumbled, fell from weakness and terror, rose and crawled painfully over on her knees.

Evelyn's face was almost unrecognizable. Fanchon felt for one who would not meet her. Her own hand was scarlet. There was, she thought, no pulse.

Somehow she got back to the others. . . what was left of them. One searching sick glance told her there was nothing she could do, and very little that she could even recognize.

The gas, she thought dimly, might explode, the plane go up in flames. It was raining, perhaps that provided a factor of safety. She didn't know. She only knew that somehow she must get away, must escape.

She returned to Evelyn and half lifted, half dragged her body to a safer distance. She knew nothing of that treacherous leakage in the gas tank which had crashed them, looking for a safe landing.

Trees. Hills, rolling. A leaden sky and the pouring rain. She was soaked to the skin.

She sat down beside Evelyn. Evelyn, she thought, was dead. There would be no Evelyn, no happy reunion in the East with the aunt she had never seen. No luxury, no breakfast in bed no pretty clothes, no happy times.

Weakly, pitifully, Fanchon began to cry. She felt something, something that was pity, that was resentment at the waste of human life.

Many Tuberculosis Deaths Are Due Solely to Neglect

Warning Signals That Always Appear in the Early Stages Should Be Given Prompt Attention, and If This Is Done Most Cases Can Be Completely Cured

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

I KNOW a man who for many years suffered from a hacking cough. His family continuously urged him to consult with a physician. His reply was always the same: "The cough does not bother me and I feel fine. Why should I go to a doctor?" He contracted an acute infection and was confined to his bed. A physician was called and discovered that the man was suffering from rather advanced tuberculosis.

This story is all too typical. Too little attention is paid to the danger signals.

No one should take a chance on tuberculosis. If proper care is not taken, the course of the disease is very rapid. When the disease is recognized in its early stages and proper care is given, tuberculosis is curable. Early symptoms of this disease are rather vague and indefinite. No matter how slight these symptoms may seem to you, they should be given immediate attention. A cough, loss of weight, poor appetite, chest or body pain fever and night sweats are signs that must be investigated immediately.

One who shows any tendency toward tuberculosis or who has early tuberculosis can be treated at home. The treatment is beneficial only if instructions are carefully followed. Complete rest in bed for one month or longer is imperative. During this time meals should be served in bed.

A daily program is of great value. The following suggestions may be of value to you in forming a schedule. At eight o'clock serve breakfast, including a glass of milk. At ten o'clock, another glass of milk is served. At 12:30 lunch is given, and thus too should include a glass of milk, and at 4 p. m. milk is again served. Early dinner is important. It should not be served later than 6:30 and must include a glass of milk. Before retiring at 9 p. m. another glass of milk should be served.

The patient should remain in bed until ordered out by his physician. Between the hours of two and four the patient must sleep or have complete rest. A sponge bath followed by an alcohol rub should be given every morning.

The windows of the bedroom are to be kept wide open at all times. Protect against draughts and colds by placing a screen around the bed and keeping the patient well covered. Smoking and alcohol are absolutely prohibited. Too much company should be avoided. Talking that tires the patient should be avoided.

It is important that hygiene measures be practiced at all times. Precautions must be taken to guard others against the spray coming from spitting, coughing or sneezing. These precautions must be closely observed when there are children in the household. Remember that children are more susceptible to this disease than adults.

By the use of common sense in the early stages of this dread disease, its control is practically certain. Be sensible about it and follow the advice of your doctor. A few weeks of sacrifice will give promise of a long life of health.

Theaters
AT THE CLIFTONA

Audiences at the Cliftona Theatre today and tomorrow get an intimate view of American family life. A view such as in real life would not even be vouchsafed to new-comers of the principal involved. The things that happen in this animated picture of minor and major tragedies, small and large, are things that even inquisitive neighbors in real life would never dream could take place in "that home next door."

The story, written by Ernest Pascal, a student of middle-class goings-on, who has achieved distinction in print as the author of numerous stories in the Red Book Columns, and other magazines and in several novels including "The Marriage Bed," "The Dark Swan," etc., is a story that intrigues the wisest attention of its beholders from start to finish.

But not alone because of its splendid realistic story is this picture a fine production, the acting is great.

EDUCATORS HEAR MUSKINGUM DEAN

NEW CONCORD, O.—Dr. R. W. Ogan, dean of Muskingum College, addressed educators in attendance upon the twenty-first annual meeting of the Council of Church Boards of Education at Cincinnati this week. J. Knox Montgomery, Jr., acting president of Muskingum, is also attending the conference.

"Student Loan Funds" was the subject of the paper read by Dr. Ogan at the Monday afternoon session. His article was based on an extended study made by him on the rotary loan program of one of the church boards of education. He will also speak on the same theme before the meeting of the Association of American Colleges on Friday morning.

Dr. Ogan is one of the younger college deans in Ohio, having come to Muskingum in the fall of 1930 at the age of 30 years. He is a graduate of Muskingum College and received his doctor of philosophy degree from Ohio State University where he was accorded the honor of Phi Beta Kappa membership.

Dr. Ogan has specialized in school administration and is the author of a number of articles in that field. At present he is making a number of research studies at Muskingum in the administration of institutions of higher learning. He is also a professor in the department of education at the college.

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

She's all worn out again

Poor girl . . . she has the same old headaches . . . backaches . . . and blues. She ought to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in tablet form.

Now I even eat cabbage without any distress, afterwards. It used to cause real suffering. I am not nearly so nervous as I used to be; feel much stronger and better in every way. A medical man must have real sense to bring forth enthusiastic statements like this. And when not only but hundreds, even thousands, are telling the same story of success, there seems no reason to doubt the day-in and day-out reliability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help stomach sufferers.

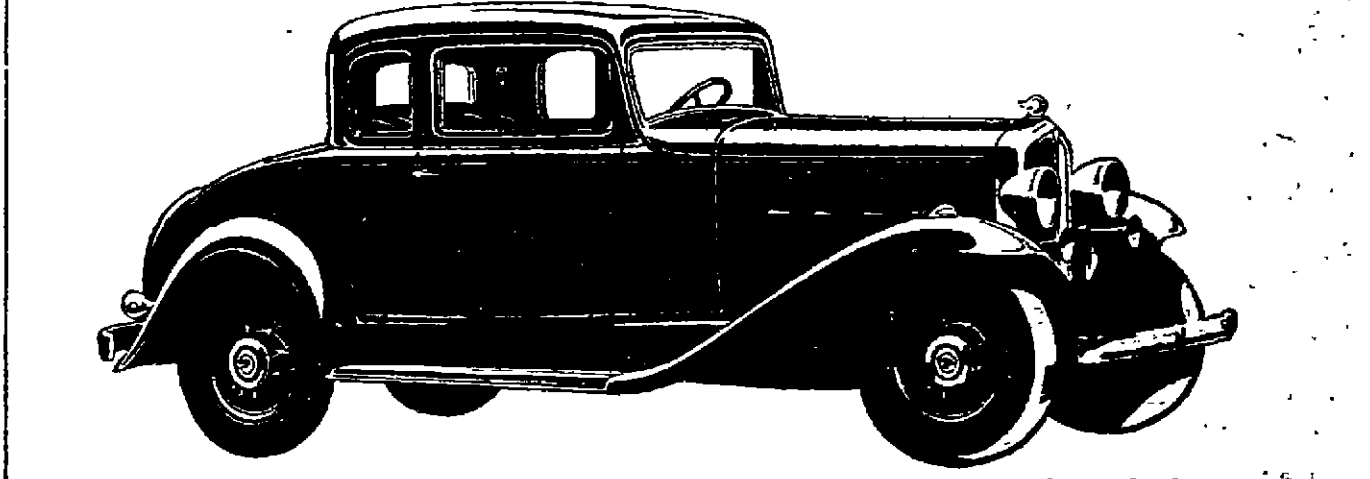

The harmless, candy-like tablets relieve the heartburn, nausea, belching, headaches, dizziness and other symptoms of indigestion.

Dr. Franklin McElfresh Talks To D. A. R. Members Tuesday

The January meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution was held at the home of Mrs. R. R. Bales on E. Main-st., Tuesday, at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. Bales was assisted in extending cordial hostilities by Mrs. E. F. Anderson, Mrs. Noah Weaver, Mrs. E. R. Bales, Miss Emily Yates and Mrs. George Foreman.

In the absence of the regent, Mrs. Glenn Nickerson, Mrs. Henry Dunlap, first vice regent, presided. The meeting was opened by the salute to the flag followed by prayer by the chaplain, Mrs. C. C. Watts.

Mrs. Orion King gave a detailed report of the clothing made at her home on Tuesday, Jan. 12, to be given to needy families through the Red Cross. The flag code for January was read by Mrs. Clark Hunsicker.

Three piano selections rendered by Mrs. Theodore Huston were highly entertaining.

The address of the afternoon, given by Dr. Franklin McElfresh of Columbus, on the subject, "Ohio in the Revolutionary War," was an educational and inspiring one. Beginning with the French explorers, LaSalle in 1680, and Bienville, in 1749, who saw the importance of holding the country, drained by the Ohio river, for the French and who took possession of it in the name of King Louis XIV of France, he passed to the Ohio Company authorized by the British government to hold and settle this country which was ultimately the cause of the French and Indian war, by the treaty of which the whole of Canada was ceded to England.

During the Revolutionary war, a young Virginian by the name of George Rodgers Clark with only one hundred men captured the forts of Kaskaskia and Vincennes, thereby giving the colonies the possession of the territory north of the Ohio because he was commissioned by Virginia.

When the treaty which ended the war was signed at Paris the American delegates, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin and Henry Laurens were able to fix the southern boundary of Canada at the Great Lakes because of Clark's expedition. England had tried to make the Ohio river the southern boundary of Canada.

This country was settled rapidly and in 1803 Ohio became a state. Dr. McElfresh characterized the Ohio state constitution as the finest document of its kind that ever has been written in its guarantee of complete civil and religious rights to every man.

He closed with a plea that men and women of today measure up to the standards of our pioneer forefathers.

Mrs. James Moffitt favored the members with three vocal solos, "Tris," "The Icicle" and "Pale Moon." She was accompanied on the piano by Miss Abbe Clarke.

Delicious refreshments were served in the dining room where Mrs. Clark Hunsicker and Mrs. Orion King presided.

BEHIND the SCENE In HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — Old-timers in Hollywood are shaking their heads over the recent epidemic of "Jinx" pictures—films which delayed by a series of mishaps or tragedies.

Connie Bennett's "Lady with a Past" was the first. The death of Robert Williams threw the production into a turmoil. Paramount's "The Miracle Man" is the second. It has been hit by illness and by the death of Tyrone Power.

Now, the jinx is on "The Lost Squadron." Six writers have worked on this story. Production has been stopped once. The original supervisor, Myles Connolly left R. K. O. Then Roger Manning, the technical director, was seriously burned in a fire which destroyed his apartment. Director Paul Sloan took sick and had to be replaced by George Archambault. Two of the principals in the picture were changed. Then cameraman Eddie Cronjager was stricken with appendicitis. On top of this, the rains held up the production. Several days ago an airplane, which was being photographed in the water, started to sink too soon. They hooked a tugboat onto it, but the tug promptly went on the rocks.

And now, to cap the climax, Richard Dix is almost forced to his bed by a severe cold.

Any, or all of these pictures may turn out to be hits. But they explain why producers turn gray.

SO THIS IS HOLLYWOOD.

One of the best Hollywood stories now going the rounds is about the newcomer from the stage who was invited to a party in Beverly Hills. Arriving, he found the home of the host to be one of those rambling Spanish mansions. But he couldn't locate the entrance. During the course of his wanderings, he finally came up to the kitchen door. Inside, he saw a man. Somewhat embarrassed, he said:
